

Still the Clever Country?

Valuing the work of professional scientists is critical to attracting future generations to science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

As a country, we must maintain a sustainable,
vibrant and committed science and R&D workforce.

The value attached to the work of professional scientists will determine whether Australia remains a clever country.

We believe professionals in science deserve greater:

- Respect
- Recognition
- Reward
